Description

Level Florida, or simply known as Florida, is a vast peninsula. The land of Florida is mainly urban, being a large city. The only inhabitants in Florida are the Florida Men, alligators, and other random creatures from the Frontrooms, the only entities on the entire level. The level itself is completely chaotic, making the level highly unstable.

Aside from the level's entities, Florida is also known for its warm climate and superb beaches. Around the coastal area is where some of the more safe parts of the level are, as the Florida Men tend to stay farther inland. However, there are a few Alligators lurking around. The coast is mainly beaches and the sea seems to infinitely extend towards the horizon. A few miles into the sea from the southern coast, a great barrier reef from the Frontrooms can be viewed.

Being one of the most chaotic levels in the USArooms, Florida ironically holds few special and anomalous properties, since most of the disarray comes from the entities' natural behaviors. The weather of the level can sometimes suddenly shift from a sunny sky to heavy rain.

Entities

The entities that Florida contains are mostly peaceful until they're attacked.

Florida Men

Making up the majority of entity count in Level Florida, the Florida Men can not be found anywhere else. The reasons behind their natural behavior is unknown, as they're too chaotic and dangerous to study. While Florida Men are considered destructive, they sometimes mean no harm and may want to "help" people. However, it's just in the way that they do it is where the danger comes from.

Known for destroying or robbing everything they see, Florida Men usually do actions that wanderers would describe as "so weird that it's funny." Every entity around Florida Men also seem to show increased aggression. For example, one story tells of a Florida Man attempting to "microwave a microwave", which resulted in an explosion, killing the Florida Man.

Alligators

As the second most common entity in Level Florida, the appearance of the Alligators almost replicates those from the Frontrooms. However, the main difference lies in their behavior; some Alligators have surprisingly low aggression while others are so merciless, they end up killing themselves after trying to attack an inanimate object.
